This includes the $29 Model B+. While it's good that the Foundation is taking steps to address this issue, it seems like it's going to be a long time before the Foundation can issue an official update to fix this issue as the Model B+ is now on the market. "This is being done by the developers of PyPi and is part of their main work on their new module storage format. "We're fixing this as there were other non-critical issues that had come up too in the main release - which people have already discovered." "This is a fast track approach to get this fixed so that new devices ordered during the April sales will work, but we will implement a more low-key approach to releasing this information in the near future for those who got their devices before the end of March."Marine Le Pen, Nathalie Marine and Pierre-Henri Dumont arrive in the northern French town of Roubaix ahead of the visit to a meat processing plant France's interior minister has said he will be hard-pressed
