

Player movements — Player Intelligence During gameplay, you and your players will be able to issue and receive complex tactical and strategic commands to each other. In most cases, you'll be able to direct individual players in the way they move, when they move and how long they move for during a ball play. This intelligence extends to the context of your overall team tactically, the formation you choose, your playstyle and how you want your players to approach a single defensive zone or a single offensive zone on the pitch. Play Styles FIFA '22 also features six new playstyles that revolve around new "Dynamic Tactical Schemes" during gameplay. The more you play in these new playstyles, the more your tactics will adjust to you and your team in real-time. More than ever before, we believe in providing every player the freedom and flexibility to create their ideal game. The team environment and context of your actual team also play a fundamental role when you select your strategy in the middle of a match. Kits FIFA 22 features a revamped kit set that provides a visual representation of your team in real-time. For the first time, we've also introduced in-depth visual customization for the kit. Fans will be able to share their customized player designs and can even design their own kits. New Dynamic Player Animations FIFA '22 also introduces the most detailed and accurate models for player animation in our history. Animations for all positions are now tied directly to the player's on-ball actions. Most importantly, we've been able to create unprecedented animation fidelity in its own animation system. New Player Movements Players are now able to run more aggressively without feeling like they are constantly running out of stamina. Players can still move naturally, run and jump with the right timing. More Realistic Player Kicks and Shifts We've also significantly improved the connection between players and their technique, delivering unprecedented responses in realistic player movements. New Control, Customization, Updates FIFA '22 provides several new in-game mechanics and interactions. We have enhanced our ball physics for the most intelligent ball control you can execute in soccer. You'll feel more in control of the ball as it will react more naturally to the skills and tactics you deliver

Features Key:

- New Tactical Free Kick System - 14 new styles for free kicks, including a technique-driven free kick system, new animations to create more goals and an Authentic marker.
- New gameplay and Motion Matching - FIFA 22 introduces HyperMotion Technology, which uses real-life motion capture data collected from 22 real-world players at a high-intensity football match in motion capture suits to power gameplay. Hyper Motion shoots to recreate player movement, tackles, aerial duels and on-ball action. Slow motion allows you to manually control the ball's flight, making it easier than ever to mimic your favourite tricks.
- Dynamic Lighting and Real-World Weather - Dynamic lighting and Real World weather give your gameplay a realistic feel, with new lighting effects and a weather system that reacts to the conditions of the match.
- Creative Director, Gary McAllister - Stole my iPad Pro and made a £10 game, Gone Home looks a little old-fashioned nowadays, right? But it's set in that kind of England - interesting people, interesting places, the unpredictability of life? What am I saying, I just love the look of it. The Design Director is Gary McAllister, who's done a lot of less-than-distinctly foregrounded games like The Room, Bioshock and Saints Row, and who's as not exactly old school as a Packard Bell Desktop could ever be, but as far away from the bloody Tesco Uno Game Pack as could be. And it's from Deus Ex, of all things. At least as far away from those as you can get without actually having a Jaguar Jones on the cover, or a reissued collection of Porsche Adventures on your table.
- New Camera Scoring System - A carefully-tuned first-of-its-kind, in-depth camera system uses the most real-world footage of the game to score high-speed goals when certain marks are hit. To make goalkeepers more authentic, 11 variations of the defender are included.
- Club Ambassador - New Club Ambassador features.
- 3D-Modelling - New 3D-modelling options, including Face ID.
