's hearing is confined to determining whether the evidence elicited at the trial shows the accused acted with the requisite mens rea. It's undisputed that Mr. Prost can demonstrate the mens rea required of him by pleading guilty and then making specific factual admissions, by affidavit or testimony, at the sentencing hearing. As noted, the probation office was prepared to meet Mr. Prost's proof, and the district court judge stated that Mr. Prost's willingness to make such admissions will have a bearing on his sentence. The one disputed fact is whether Mr. Prost specifically admitted what the probation office would say—that he entered the bank "without lawful authority and intending to commit an offense against the bank." The district court is the fact-finder under Rule 32(i)(3)(B), and because it has chosen to resolve this disputed fact in a manner contrary to our rule's plain text, I see no alternative on this record than to 3 remand for resentencing. I therefore dissent. 4 Q: Is it possible to get exception metadata in C# without XmlException I would like to know if it is possible to get the full error information along with the exception name/type that occurred, such as the ErrorCode, Message, InnerException etc. of an exception in C#.
